CATARRH

Of Ten Years' Duration. The Discharges Thick, Bloody, and of Foul Odor. Senses of Smell and Taste Wholly Gone. Entirely Cured by

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

Messrs. Weeks and Potter—Gentlemen—I feel compelled to acknowledge to you the great benefit Sanford's Radical Cure has done me. For ten years I have been afflicted with catarrh in its most obstinate form. The discharge was very thick and bloody, causing a foul odor to issue from my nostrils, which others were very sensitive to. I was also suffering from a very severe pain over my eyes. At times I was quite troubled with deafness, and my sense of taste and smell were very dull. These symptoms have now fully returned, and my general health is much improved. Yours,

MELBOURNE H. FOSS.

North Bend, Neb.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., Nov. 3, 1876.

LATER.

Gentlemen—The package of Sanford's Radical Cure received of you last fall I just know what it is—I have found it the best medicine I ever took for catarrh. I have tried everything else and all else failed. I have not been able to stop the discharge that has been from me for years, but now it is entirely stopped. I have tried a dozen other things, but can refer any one to me, and I will cheerfully inform them of the benefit I have received. My health has been in the best condition for the last year. I will cheerfully inform any one who may call on me of the benefit I have received from the use of your Radical Cure. I remain, Yours, MELBOURNE H. FOSS.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., Nov. 15, 1876.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE

is entirely vegetable and contains no poisonous drugs. Its mild, healing properties are unsurpassed by any medicine in the world. Some of the diseases it will cure are: Catarrh, Ulcerous and Scrofulous Humors, Ulcers, Tumors, Chronic Rheumatism, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots on the Skin, Scaly Eruptions, Tetter, Ringworm, Scald Head, Erysipelas, Pimples on the Face, Blotches, Boils, Carbuncles, Old Obstinate Ulcers, Blood Poisoning, Mercurial Disease, Dropsy, Female Weakness, Kidney and Urinary Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Piles, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression, Spinal Weakness, and all kindred diseases, whether of long or short standing, or whether inherited or contracted, and which have resisted all other treatment and medicines, and which have long been pronounced incurable by the most eminent physicians, after all else has failed, and which are now being advertised as cured by other preparations, we do not claim that Sanford's Radical Cure will do all we claim for it unless the patient has some of the following signs or symptoms: Offensive Breath, Deafness, Ringing Noises in the Head, Dizziness, Nervous Headache, Pain in the Temples, Loss of the Senses of Taste and Smell, Disruption of the Nasal Septum, Inflammation of the Nasal Passages, Patrid Sore Throat, Tickling or Irritating Cough, Bronchitis, and Bleeding of the Lungs.

Each package contains one bottle of Sanford's Improved Injecting Fluid, with full and complete directions for use in all cases. Price, $1 per package. For sale by all wholesale and retail druggists throughout the United States and Canadas. Wholesale Agents, Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 12, 1877.

NEW HAMPSHIRE REPUBLICANS.

In response to a request for his opinion and advice concerning the political situation Hon Henry W. Blair, Representative of the Third New Hampshire District has addressed a letter to his constituents earnestly setting forth the importance of maintaining the Republican party as the hope of the future. He deals candidly and calmly with the facts of the situation, and while he seeks to speak with all possible kindness of the President's motives, he does not qualify his disapproval of the so-called "Southern policy." He contends, in fact, that the President can have no policy but that of the platform on which he was elected, the sentiments of which he affirmed in his letter of acceptance and inaugural, and he holds that the Southern surrenders were specific acts outside of and in direct antagonism with the principles and policy of the Republican party. He earnestly counsels harmonious effort to maintain Republican supremacy in the North and urges his brethren in New Hampshire to work together for a Republican triumph in the Granite State. We quote brief extracts from his powerful letter:

We must prepare for the future. Now, shall we destroy the Republican party in the North, because we hear that the Administration has destroyed its organization in the South? That organization may be only cast down, and not destroyed. Let us hope. Despair is not yet in order. There are one hundred thousand tried and true Republicans in Kentucky alone to-day, and they will yet rally from this unexpected blow.

Fortunately, principles are immortal. But they are only available for the political good of men through the agency of political parties. If a Southern policy has been adopted which destroys the action of the essential principles of freedom there shall we persist in madly break up the party by which represents them here?

There is peace, but I fear no liberty. Let it never be forgotten that these measures are not the policy of President Hayes nor the of the Republican party. The policy of the Republican party was laid down in the Cincinnati platform, and I sometimes fear, the Administration is committed, an error almost without remedy, shall use, with less excuse, because we have a clearer view of the situation, made it impossible so, by disbanding or disintegrating the Republican party of the North just as, in consequence of this error, our friends have been obliged to do that and in the South and seem inclined to in Ohio and elsewhere. There is no doubt that a Republican defeat in New Hampshire would be a national calamity. If there was ever a time and place when and where the regular organization should be maintained in each and should be controlled by those who fear the evil effects of the surrender of the Southern States, that time is now and that place is the approaching campaign in New Hampshire.

"CONCILIATION IN ITALY".

Under the above caption the N. Y. Times has an editorial on the recent suppression at Father Curci, an Italian priest and member of the Company of Jesuits, which furnishes a true story with a moral. Father Curci recently issued a pamphlet urging that the clerical party should seek to obtain control of the Government by going vigorously into the elections and securing sufficient power to compel the King to "reconcile" the priesthood. By obtaining a cabinet consisting of "friends of the Church" the freedom of the press could be restricted, the schools handed over to the control of the priests and thus the Church would regain all its power and reunited Italy as it once ruled the Papa States. The trouble was that Father Curci spoke out too plainly the designs of the priesthood and as Victor Emmanuel has not proved a cleric and to his liking, Father Curci's demand for "reconciliation" was highly disapproved by his superiors and he has been suppressed by the General of the Jesuits. Upon this state of affairs the Times comments as follows:

"It is probable that Father Curci's suppression near the loyalty of the King. They do not care to run the risk of recognizing the Constitution, and endeavoring to obtain a parliamentary majority, while Victor Emanuel occupies the throne, and they imagine that his successor may prove more pliant in their hands, and more active in striving to conciliate them. Little is known of Prince Humbert, the heir to the Italian throne, but it is possible that the priests believe him to be a weak, well-meaning man, who when he comes to the throne, will try to make a reputation for statesmanship by abandoning the traditions of his house and the men who made him an Italian King, and by adopting a policy of conciliation. If, when the honest soldier King is dead, King Humbert informs the priests that if they will recognize him as a legitimate King he will give them the control of the Government, they will doubtless consent to be conciliated. When he travels from town to town making public addresses, and professing his desire that every Italian from the Alps to the Adriatic should be conciliated, he will be loudly cheered by the very ecclesiastics who now frown upon Father Curci, and when he invites a Cardinal or two into his Cabinet, and undertakes to reform the civil service by appointing no one to office who is objectionable to the priests, he will be hailed as the deliverer and savior of the Church.

The trouble with Father Curci is that he is in advance of his age. If, two years ago, any ex-Confederate statesman were to have formally announced that the South would consent to be conciliated provided the Republican Party in the Southern States were to be disbanded, and the virtual control of the Federal Government were to be handed over to Wade Hampton and his class, the announcement would have been regarded as impertinent and absurd, and the North would have promptly refused to conciliate the South by making any such sacrifice. But time has worked wonders, and the South is now conciliated and has everything that it wants. Perhaps in two years more the honest, if not very intelligent, Italian King will be succeeded by a weak and well-meaning Prince, anxious, above all things, that his enemies should not call him a usurper. We may then see the Clerical Party conciliated and in the full possession of the Italian Government. It is just possible, however, that the King who conciliated the church would rank in history a trifle lower than the loyal soldier-King, who, although a better trooper than statesman, never betrayed the confidence that Italy gave him."

With the words: "Now that the negro question is no longer an issue in politics," the New York World opens an article discussing the extinction of the race. The World evidently proposes to carry the Southern policy to its logical conclusion.

THE IMMINENT DANGER.

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

We are threatened with the gravest danger which has confronted the United States since the war of the rebellion, and recent votes on the silver bill show how imminent it is. All the dishonest elements of the population and all the lunatic financiers have united with a numerous and solid South for an attack upon the National Treasury and the National honor. On the one hand a Wholesale repudiation of debts, on the other a frightful depletion of the public funds by subsidies, grants and rebel claims—these are the twin objects of the alliance which now startles us with its first successes, and affrights the country with foreebodings of disgrace and ruin. All the foundations of public faith and private prosperity are attacked. The strength of the combination has long been suspected by close observers of the currents of opinion; now that it is disclosed, the Nation is struck with dismay.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

The banking firm of James B. Colgate & Co., of New York, recently addressed a letter to Secretary Sherman proposing to purchase Government bonds with silver bullion at 412½ grains to the dollar. Secretary Sherman's reply Dec. 1, plainly shows the fallacy of the silver scheme as follows:

Your letter of the 20th inst., was duly received, but was not answered sooner because of other more pressing official engagements; nor did I think you expected an answer until I saw your letter in the public prints with some comments upon it indicating that no favorable answer ought to have received more prompt attention.

You offer to purchase $150,000 four per cent. bonds, if I will receive in payment silver bullion to an amount sufficient to coin one hundred and fifty thousand silver dollars containing in each 412½ grains standard silver.

I am authorized to issue these bonds only at par for coin, and as gold coin only is authorized by law, I can only receive gold coin. This department has sold within six months over $75,000,000 of these bonds at par for gold coin. With $150,000 of bonds or gold coin, I can now buy silver enough to coin $163,830 of the silver dollars you order, or, to state it differently, you can buy with $147,337 of gold coin enough silver dollars to pay, as you propose, for $150,000 four per cent. bonds, and thus, as an experienced broker, can make the handsome profit of $12,663. It is true, you offer to take silver dollars for coin interest, but I do not see how this helps the Government, unless it makes a pretext to pay silver dollars to those who gave gold for their bonds; but you would hardly think this fair or honest.

The Government might find this expedient to pay a cheaper dollar, so convenient that it might think it better to adopt the Latin ratio of 15½ of silver to one of gold, and coin a dollar of 400 grains with which to pay you. I know you would not think this fair or honest. Or it might think a dollar dollar containing 385 grains enough enough to pay a bondholder. This, I am sure, you would not think fair or honest.

I must, therefore, respectfully decline your offer, and ask you to pay gold coin as others have done, with the confident hope that the United States will never pay you in a coin of less value than it exacts of you.

The Toledo, Ohio, post-office case has afforded a sweet illustration of the new civil service reform. Postmaster Dowling, an efficient and popular officer, was arbitrarily removed to give place to a Mr. Reed nominated to please Stanley Matthews. Reed took the office, got its affairs into serious complication, and meanwhile the Senate refused to confirm his appointment. The failure to confirm reinstated the former postmaster; but the President again sent Reed's name to the Senate. On Monday, the despatches inform us, he sent in a special message withdrawing Reed's name for the reason that "the discussion of this nomination in the executive session developed the fact that the President in this instance was not acting within the civil service rules." That seems to be another to the cases in which the President has been protected by the Senate against his own blunders.

In the Senate on Monday Stanley Matthews found a warm supporter of his declaration in favor of paying our bonds in silver, in Senator Thurman, so long opposed by the Democrats as their great champion of honest finance. Thurman has been trimming for some time, but has finally plunged into the very midst of the inflationists.

The celestial exhibition of "The Crescent and the Star" on Saturday evening, which the N. Y. Herald thought would inspire the superstitious Turks with fresh confidence of triumph, proves rather, to have been the precursor of defeat. In view of the crushing blow to the Turkish cause by the capture of Plevna and the surrender of Osman Pasha's force.

Congressman Blair of New Hampshire has addressed a letter to his constituents, arguing upon them the duty of united Republican action in the coming campaign. While expressing his entire faith in the President's integrity of purpose and in the soundness of his Republicanism, he has his doubts of the entire wisdom of his Southern policy, which he charges upon the party as much as upon the Administration.—Boston Journal.

The Journal misrepresents Mr. Blair. Instead of charging the Southern policy upon the Republican party he distinctly characterizes the course pursued in the South as contrary to the Republican policy declared at Cincinnati and reiterated by the President in his letter of acceptance and inaugural address. On the Journal's roll the truth.

THE KENTUCKY GOOSE-BONE. The Louisville (Ky.) Commercial of the 7th inst. says: "This year our goose has insisted upon taking its own time getting fat, and numerous letters have been received from different parts of the country inquiring after our little prophet, but until our goose got fat and offered up its life as a sacrifice to science there was no chance for a consultation. A study of its meteorological coloring indicates that we are to have a severe Winter. There is some cold weather about the 1st of December, which we are now realizing; but it will not last long, and the next week or two will be more pleasant, with the prospects good for fair Christmas weather, although December will not be a very cold month, but what it lacks will be fully made up in January. The new year will probably be welcomed by bright weather; but the welcome will be brief, and we will have cold weather before the middle of the month, which will continue, with the interposition of a few bright days, and raining at the last of the month, into the most severe weather we have had for years. February will be a cold, blustering month, and Winter will no doubt go a good way along with Spring, carrying cold weather and snow into March. Those who take stock in the goose-bone will lay in their fuel, and keep plenty of warm clothing at the house, as the little prophet predicts a long Winter, and some very severe weather during January, according to it, we will have a long spell of cold weather during the first two months of the new year.

A New Orleans paper, making war on Senator Kellogg publishes a letter which the Senator wrote to the old publisher in July, 1873. It is a terrible letter for the eyes of the Southern Democrats. After stating that he understood that the Picayune could be purchased at a low figure Governor Kellogg said:

Should you again take it, I shall be glad to aid your enterprise in any way in my power, not that I suppose you will support my administration (except as far as your sense of public justice impels you) but because I know you will publish a conservative journal which will help to build up the prosperity of the State, and will not pursue the course of some other journals in representing everything and everybody in the most gloomy and exaggerated colors, so as to keep away capital and enterprise from the State.

It does not appear that such letters as that can injure the Senator very seriously.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

We are sorry to observe that the President is not yet as willing to compromise with the Republicans as with the Democrats.—Boston Traveller.

If the Senate is gastronomically wise it will make Sanford the keeper of its restaurant, and compensate him for the loss of the Belgian mission.—Indianapolis News.

The re-nomination of Messrs. Roosevelt and Prince is at least a surprise. Our New York Congressmen do not appear to amount to as much in the way of dictating appointments as a single ex-rebel Georgia Senator.—Troy Times.

At the September election the people of Maine rejected the amendment to their constitution requiring the payment of poll tax by voters, by a vote of 20,330 yeas to 25,242 nays. The amendment prohibiting towns from contracting debts to a greater extent than 5 per cent. of their valuation, was ratified by a vote of 30,369 yeas to 5,882 nays.

In the committees of the Senate, as revised, Mr. Hamlin is chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, second on the Post Offices, and third on the committee to examine the several branches of the civil service. Mr. Blaine is Chairman of the Committee on Rules, and serves also on the Committee on Appropriations, Naval Affairs and the Mississippi levees.

Conversays he voted for the admission of Hamburgh Butler because he is ardently in favor of the President's policy.

This Company is purely mutual, not having a dollar of stock. Its policy holders are the only members of the Company. It is therefore one of a kind, a single partner of itself, persons for insuring each other in the lives. There being no stock, there can be no sale of the Company from one set of owners and managers to another. The assets are held in trust solely for the benefit of the policy holders themselves, to which a board of twenty directors, all of whom are policy holders, are directly responsible as the business of the Company.

The Company issues policies with either annual premiums for life, or with premiums for a limited number of years or premiums, it will also issue long term endowments. Experience has shown that these are the most advantageous forms of insurance, and are those most in use by the Company. We think, therefore, it cannot be wrong for us to advise our patrons to take the following plan, which will reduce the premium, thus lessening the payments to the actual current cost of the insurance.

In thirty years, the association of men united in interests and purposes, as is implied in the representatives of insured members, have had time to test and try members who have died, the vast sum of twenty-five millions of dollars, and the experience of thousands of insured and thirty-five and a half millions of dollars in cash and assets.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

FORTY FIFTH CONGRESS—Second Session

Senate

WASHINGTON Dec 11

Mr Conkling presented a memorial of citizens of Louisiana, protesting against the recognition of the Packard government in that state. Mr Conkling submitted a resolution instructing the committee on the judiciary to report a bill providing for the appointment of a commission of two Senators to inquire and report what legislation, if any, is necessary to prevent the recurrence of such outrages as those in Louisiana, and to secure a fair and peaceful condition of things on the Mexican border. It also instructs the committee on judiciary to report a bill providing for the punishment of persons who may be guilty of such outrages on the Mexican border. Agreed to.

Mr Wallace of Oregon, occupied the remainder of the morning hour in a speech against the Chinese immigration bill.

Mr Teller called up his resolution in relation to the Hon. Jeremiah Black, and after a long discussion, the resolution was adopted by a vote of 37 to 17.

Mr Hill, of Colorado, then called up his resolution in relation to the Mexican boundary line

THE FARMER'S POSITION.

The world's markets are glutted with the products of the loom, the mine and the forge. Manufactures are running on half-time. Merchants' warehouses groan with the weight of accumulating merchandise. Able and stalwart men walk our cities, seeking in vain for work, finding no vacant stations for anxious and willing workers. Strikes and labor difficulties abound in every direction.

What is the remedy for this unhappy state of affairs? We answer, increased attention to the cultivation of the soil. Thousands of worthy men, graduates from the farm, nowcking out a miserable existence in the vain struggle for wealth and improved condition in overcrowded cities, should return to labor on the soil. Grange clubs, farmers' clubs can do a mighty and philanthropic work in encouraging these prodigal sons to return once more to the happy home of their fathers.

Agriculture offers no gilded prizes to be obtained without labor. She gives ample reward to honest toil; she furnishes happy homes to industrious inmates; she throws the charm of quiet contentment and peaceful thought around her devoted subjects; she keeps aloof from the contaminating influences of temptation, crime, gaudy display, extravagant habits, that prevail in city life; she feeds with her bounty, she educates with her wonders, she satisfies with her beauties, those who are willing to rest content with moderate aspirations, with natural appetites, with industrious habits, and with slow but constant gains.

Farm products, it is true, are low, but every market in the world stands the surplus crops of the agriculturist. There is no glut of breadstuffs or provisions in Europe. The Old World stands ready with open arms and bags of gold to welcome the products of the New World. However abundant our crops of grain or herds of cattle, they are all wanted at a remunerative price. True, we cannot secure the fictitious values of the speculative era now passed, but with economy and frugality, with industry and enterprise, the American farmer is the peer of all the workers in other occupations. His position carries an independence, a comfort, a satisfaction unknown to the dweller in the busy town. The present depression in merchantile and manufacturing business is having its natural effect in arresting the flow of population to the cities, in opening the eyes of many worthy people to the fact that the city is not the place for them nor their families, and finally in convincing hundreds of able-bodied young men that agriculture offers more inducements to the average individual in moderate circumstances, in point of health, occupation, means of support and opportunities for improvement, than any of the over crowded trades and employments of the large villages and cities.—American Cultivator.

C. O. Robbins, of Whitrop, in a communication to the Portland Transcript, says the remarkable scarcity of apple trees year calls for the figures of our successful orchardists. Visiting Phineas Whittemore of Chesterville (P. O. Farmington Falls) last week, I found the product of his orchard ninety barrels engrafted winter apples.

Geo. A. Longfellow, of Wintrop, picked one hundred and twenty-six barrels of No. 1 Roxbury Russets, and twenty-five barrels of Baldwins and Greenings from his orchard this year.

Andrew H. Tickham, No. Monmouth, a noted fine wood grower, has become noted as a fine orchardist, as his crop of eighty barrels of grafts testify.—An illustration of the success that crop of '77 is shown in the well known "Reason orchard" near Mr. Longfellow's. This orchard of 25 acres and 1500 trees, the product was nearly a thousand barrels of apples in 1876, but not this year yield a barrel. Prof. Sewall, of Bangor, the present owner, is experimenting with different fertilizers, pruning, mulching, and improving it. As to old orchards, its pristine vigor can only be restored by transplanting, and many of the trees are dead and dying.

Victor as fruit growers this year are those that have well tied the army of trees for a series of years, and conquered the hosts of borers, caterpillars and army worms, before they preyed upon them. Sheep are an auxiliary against the codling moth. I notice the fairest Baldwin orchards pastured with sheep. Fruit growers realized in a measure that our crop of apples lost a few years since with prices so low as hardly to pay for picking. This year, with apples worth $5 per barrel that growing pays.

THE BEST COW ON RECORD.—The best butter cow of which we have a reliable account was bought by a farmer out of a drove on its way from Maine to Brighton, about the year 1816. The farmer's name was Oakes, and the cow, ever after became famous was known as the Oakes cow. She was purchased from Mr. Oakes by his brother, a blacksmith, who kept her until she died. Her butter-making capacity coming to the knowledge of the Massachusetts Agricultural Society, one of the trustees visited Mr. Oakes and engaged him to put her on trial and report the result. This trial took place in 1815, and from May 17 to December 29 of that year the cow made, on an average, a fraction over sixteen pounds of butter per week, besides furnishing a quart of milk a day to Mr. Oakes' family. Her food consisted of grass and a hasty-pudding meal per week, which was given her stirred into her own milk after it was skimmed.

This cow was described as being of very moderate size, with a straight back, a dished head and neck, wide broad hips, and milk veins and udder of the best form and capacity. The cow was bred in the vicinity of the Kennebec, where a good many Shorthorns had been imported. There was no record to show how much improved blood entered into her composition, but it was said that her straight back, wide hips, and a general contour showed her to be, in some degree, of Shorthorn origin, though she was not believed to be even of high grade. The Oakes cow did not produce a calf in any way equal to herself in any regard.—Mental and Par ners.

CHARCOAL AND LIME.—Permit us again to urge all breeders of poultry who wish healthy fowls, to be liberal in supplying their fowls with charcoal. Even if the fowls are not confined, but especially so if they are, charcoal pounded up into bits or pieces, about the size of a grain of corn, or a little more, should be put around in small piles where the fowls can have easy access to it, and they will soon make use of it. The cost of charcoal is but a trifle, and when the distance from the town or city is so great as to prevent it being readily obtained therefrom, the ashes from a wood stove may be saved out and the coal, pieces of charred wood or charcoal may be used in the place of that made in the regular way. Especially during the spring and early summer months, it is advisable to use charcoal freely. Lime, too is valuable in many ways. In the form of whitewash it begets cleanliness, freedom from disease and laying hens should have lime where they can make use of it, in assisting in the production of eggs.—Poultry World.

According to the Northampton, Mass., Gazette, William S. Dougiass of Greenwich, has a very remarkable cow. It is stated that she gave in the month of June, 1592 quarts of milk; the most she gave in any one day was 52½ quarts. She averaged through the month 46 2-5 quarts a day; at six cents a quart the milk, this would bring $83.52.
